Welcome to Berkeley
UC Berkeley’s 179-acre central campus is adorned with architectural and historical landmarks and retains much of the tranquil beauty of early California. The campus extends 1000 acres into the surrounding wooded hillsides to include athletic fields, recreation areas, research facilities, student residence halls, a botanical garden and nature reserve. A wonderful way to be introduced to the campus is to take a tour offered by Visitor Services. For more information, call 510/642-5311 or visit visitors.berkeley.edu.

Nighttime Walking Route
UCPD encourages you to use our security services, but there may be times when you cannot. If you plan on walking through campus at night, choose well lighted, well traveled paths. UCPD recommends the nighttime walking route shown on this map (see other side).

Blue Light Phones
There are more than one hundred emergency telephones on or around campus. The light on the phone or the dial 911 and the intercom will connect directly to UCPD Dispatch. Use the blue light phone when you need emergency assistance.

UCPD Web Site
Be sure to visit policia.berkeley.edu for more information about these and other safety programs, as well as to learn crime prevention strategies and get night safety guidelines. The campus and its environs are designed to prevent crime, but your awareness can help to reduce the incidence of crime.
